GEM

Overview

---

GEM interface showing the Solar Mapping Theme which includes the Solar Photovoltaic Facilities Database, solar power plant sites from the Energy Information Administration, and Solar Photovoltaic Energy Potential from the National Renewable Energy Laboratory. Argonne's Environmental Science (EVS) and Energy Systems and Infrastructure Assessment (ESIA) divisions are hosting an energy planning tool funded by the U. Department of Energy's Grid Deployment Office. Geospatial Energy Mapper (GEM) provides interactive mapping and analysis tools for energy. The Global Solar Power Tracker is composed of worldwide facility-level data on utility-scale (1 MW+) solar photovoltaic (PV) and solar thermal facilities, as well as country-aggregated distributed (<1 MW) solar PV data. Wiki--whether it's a coal mine, oil pipeline, solar farm, and so on. Wiki project is based on MediaWiki, a software platform developed by the Wikipedia. A comprehensive online mapping tool that helps to identify areas that are suitable for power generation and other energy-related projects GEM is an interactive web-based decision support system that allows users to locate areas with high suitability for power generation and potential energy. GEM's Global Solar Power Tracker and Global Wind Power Tracker include all projects that have been announced, entered pre-construction, or are currently under construction for solar capacity over 1 megawatts (MW) and utility-scale wind capacity over 10 MW.
